

We have been continuing to think about how animals have adapted to live in their habitats in science in Year 2. We had some really interesting discussions this afternoon such as why a polar bear would struggle to survive in a savannah and how a lion would need to adapt in order to live in a tundra.

